

In line with emerging trends in the energy sector, we believe it is important that clear policy recognition and support is given to the provision of Battery Storage schemes. They assist in supporting the delivery of power from renewable sources and provide additional resilience in the National Grid network, as well as additional security of our electrical supply.

Further detailed comments can be provided separately.